Since the first of discharge,
Since the first of discharge the down:
Storm the forts of destroys the first of the firs

See the brazen hosts of hell, Art and power employing; More than human torque can tell, Blood-bought souls destroving, Hark! from rain's ghastly road Victims groon becent their load Ecoward i ob, ye sons of God, And darn or die for Jepsa,

There's a place dark with wos, where the Christ-rejectors go, Shut's way from the good and the true; If its gains you would shun, to the arms of Joses rue— There's person and parity for you.
